Leslie Kell creates her surreal artworks using an original technique that synthesizes her artistry in design and photography. She works with natural and architectural forms to create virtual environments in which her photos are assembled into the spaces and patterns of her visionary designs. As the imagery interacts to create the highlights, shadows, contours, and textures of the new image; it also mingles and blurs to offer discoveries deeper within the composition.

The complex and layered works are visual encounters where a light beam or a fleeting reflection can ignite a spark as it passes between reality and illusion. The result reveals a place you might not recognize—but, somehow, have been waiting to visit. The more you look, the more you see.
